

comfortnoise podcast 024-1011

- strictly dubstep over 2h/34m/34s
- by cutkachi, phrex & flowtune (blazin dubz; bern/switzerland)
- presented by new.com (comfortnoise, dubexmachina; zh)
- streamed on october 27th 2011 over www.livebeats.com
- download from www.comfortnoise.com (mp3/224kbs/250mb)

bern's up-and-coming city bass collective blazin dubz consists of the three producers cutkachi, phrex & flowtune. all of them are passionately producing dubstep on the lower, serious end of "dubstep". in their common studio they combine their individual musical knowledge and background to a very inspiring vibe - and preferably press the results on acetate! whenever new.com thinks at blazin dubz, a former slaughterhouse comes into his mind, an incredibly crowded dancefloor on a wild savage in bern where they dropped their tunes and literally drove the crowd crazy. yeah, blazin dubz is about quality basses and bern's lively underground music scene! in comfortnoise podcast 024-1011, cutkachi, phrex & flowtune present us their own dubplates and talk about the idea behind their sound.
